

Jane Amel-Azizpour's Bio

Hello my name is Jane Amel, and my background is in education both in UK and abroad.

I have 3 children and 6 grandchildren.

Owning animals has always been an important thing for me and I had ventured into Persian cat showing, I then showed longhaired guinea pigs. I seem to be drawn to longhaired breeds as Yorkshire terriers were also in there. I have though since choosing and been lucky to now own a wheaten as my last dog died very unexpectedly and this really affected me. I have since retired and have owned Floki for nearly one year now and from the outset knew that I wanted to show him.

I am now a new and very much novice in the show scene, finding help from many people, learning about this wonderful breed who will own you, they will own your heart and use you in any way they can. Expect to be the wheaten owner and all eyes to be on them - these wonderful, wonderful wheatens. Expect your life to be different, try showing them and always be ready to talk about them, because you will be asked.
